C. P. R. CLUB PICNIC, BLAIRMORE, JULY 1

According to latest reports, the C. P. R. Social and Athletic Club, of Lethbridge, have decided to hold their picnic here on the First of July. That date is not far distant now, and it is expected that that town council will take some definite action at their regular meeting next Monday night in the way of calling a public meeting to appoint committees to aid the C. P. R. Club in putting a good program for their day here. If this is done, the First of July should be a gala day for Blairmore and The Pass, for with the crowd that Lethbridge will send and the local people, the proceedings should be more than lively. Anyway, there's no time like the present to start the ball a-rolling, so let's get going and put Blairmore "over the top" on the First.

LUNDBRECK'S NEW GOLF COURSE

Lundbreck, the latest town in these parts to form a golf club, is making great arrangements for the opening of their new course on Saturday, June 17th at 1:30 p.m. A good sports program has also been arranged, which includes flat and pony races, "radio" race, coconut shies, greasy poles, etc. The course will be in fine shape for the golfers and it is reported to be one of the best courses, for the first year, that the southern portion of the province has ever seen. It is expected that members of clubs from Pincher Creek to Coleman will attend and undoubtedly a large gathering of local enthusiasts will also help the new club get away to a good start.

The committee in charge of the arrangements is C. Cartwright and A. McCulloch.

BUILDING TRADE BOOMING HERE

Work was commenced this week on St. Anne's Catholic church, preparing it for a coat of stucco. This will add greatly to the appearance of the church and will also make it more comfortable during the winter months. Contractor Pozzi has charge of the work.

Mr. Pozzi has also started work on ten cottages for the coal company in West Blairmore. The cottages are to be of hollow tile construction, containing four rooms and a pantry. They are to be erected at different points in the town, and will undoubtedly add much to the appearance of the small city which the coal company has built in the west end of town.

Another gang of Mr. Pozzi's men are also working on the general office building of the coal company at Bellevue, which is progressing very rapidly.

The contract for the departmental store and apartments to be erected by the company between the head office and Upton's tailor shop, has been let to Mr. Thomas, contractor, of Calgary. Work on this building will commence in the course of a few days. The building will occupy all the vacant space as stated above and will have a most attractive appearance.

A. Brunetto started the excavation work for his large store building this week. The building will occupy all the space between Sartoris and The Enterprise, where the Budd building formerly stood.

The addition to Mar Poy's restaurant on Victoria Street is progressing at a rapid rate and will soon be completed. Contractor Ericson is in charge of the work.

Several residences in town are also nearly completed.

CHAUTAUQUA TO USE THE ARENA

As the time goes on Chautauqua Week draws near and people all thru the Pass are awaiting anxiously for the 19th of June, the opening day.

The Chautauqua, in the rural districts, offers opportunities that should not be passed by. The music, singing, lectures, entertainments, plays, etc., are of the kind that are never heard outside of the large cities. Those taking part in the Chautauque program are the pick of their lines in entertainment, and are brought right to the door of local people by local citizens. This, alone, speaks well for the class of entertainment that these citizens are anxious to procure for the benefit of those who hanker for fine music and entertainment. The cost of attending these performances with a season ticket, is a mere trifle compared to what it would cost to travel to a city to hear any one such performance. A season ticket, admitting the holder to all events costs but $3.00, while to attend all the performances at the single admission price runs into the neat sum of $8.25. So it not only serves the committee to buy a season ticket, for they have guaranteed to sell a certain number of tickets, but it also helps the individual bank roll. Get yours today.

It has been practically decided that the Chautauqua will be held in the arena this year, which certainly has many advantages over the tent of former years. One thing, the tent will not have to be erected, seats will not have to be built and torn down, and the lighting arrangement at the arena is all intact and the best that can be had. The arena is also located in a position to draw the people from all parts of the town. So just summing up these few arguments in favor of the arena, it is easily seen that nothing can beat it for such an event as the Chautauqua.

We were hardly seated when the train started with even more than the usual noise and the horses immediately tried to climb the elevator that stood a few feet to one side of the road. I clutched Mary's arm and checked back a scream. When order was restored, "Livingstone" turned to us and said, apologetically but calmly, "I'll have to put these brutes on the plough, they are a little wild." A trifle fresh—our lady old lady and the maid carriage-horse Mrs. Cartstone used to send for "the Kentucky horses" have left me with many things to learn. I can plainly see. How glad I am that I did not scream!

We were only a few moments reaching our destination, which was a fairly large two-story wooden building, unadorned but weather-stained to a lovely grey shade. A stout, energetic-looking woman came out as we drove up and welcomed us with a smile that would have put the Chinese cat to shame.

"My, but I'm powerful glad to see you! I haven't had ladies to stay in my house since I came to Elba. And she helped to drive, for 'Livingstone' could not leave the horses that were a trifle fresh. Then I turned over to Mrs. 'Your charge.' But he became a beautiful (terra-cotta colour) and with a lightning 'obligation, is mine," he touched the horses with the whip and was off in a cloud of dust before I could decide whether he was offended, amused, or only shy.

Mrs. Mills (she had introduced her by a graceful bow) turned her head towards the sign-board, "I'm her" laughed aloud.

"Good Land, if that ain't the funniest thing I ever seen! Don't Livingstone has more money than you could shake a stick at, and to think that you offered to pay him! And she went off into another spin!"

"My friend," said Mrs. Mills, "in the century long, and she does not under-

Indoor Life

Spending more time indoors makes women far more subject to constipation than men.

The liver becomes sluggish and torpid, the bowels constipated and the system poisoned by impurities.

If you would get away from the myriads of ills which result from constipation, it is only necessary to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

The benefits from their use are as lasting as they are prompt and certain.

Mrs. John Barry, 18 St. Andrew Street, Quebec, Que., writes:

"This is to certify that I was troubled for years with constipation and tried all kinds of medicines without relief. As for my husband, he was suffering from the same trouble. I used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I did so, and sure as night they have given me more relief than all the other pills I have used during the last fifteen years. I can also state that I have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for piles with excellent results."

The MISSING FACTORY

LAST week's story told about the wicked Prince Carl and his wife, the Princess Elia, who plotted to kill an old man who had come to them for shelter and to rob him of the sack that he had told them contained the most wonderful thing in the world. They enticed him to the middle of the night, expecting to find the old man asleep. But he was not. Instead he met them at the door of his room, his hand upraised and a great light encircling him, which seemed to affect the wicked pair in such a way that they were unable to move and only heard his words as though in a dream.

"The most wonderful of the castle," said the old man in a voice deep with anger, "shall be your home after this. I, who am a powerful Fairy in disguise, shall change you into two Black Swans and from this moment, so you shall remain until you are sincerely grieved for all the terrible sin you have both been guilty of and find a little child shall really love you."

Princess Elia screamed in terror, but it was of no use; for at that instant two Black Swans with brilliant red legs and bills had been seen in the moonlight gliding over the quiet water of the moat, had hovered there to notice.

But there was no one; even the mysterious old man had disappeared. Stillness of the night enveloped the castle. Had anyone been there to see they would also have noticed that great tears trickled down from the eyes of the two Swans to the surface of the moat, which was now their home.

In the morning, there was great consternation among all the servants and followers of the Prince and Princess! There seemed to be way of finding out what had become of their master and mistress, who had apparently disappeared from the face of the earth. Every one noticed the two beautiful Swans; but neither could anyone understand their being there. They supposed that they had arrived at the moat during the night, having flown there from other countries. Soon they stopped wondering and before long the wicked Prince and Princess were forgotten, and after some years the castle was but an ivy and vine covered pile of neglected ruins. There was no sign of life anywhere, but the birds, insects, the songs of birds amongst the ivy and the Two Black Swans, who arched their shiny necks and dipped their blood-red bills in the water; and though tears always flowed from their eyes, their hearts were just as wicked as when they had been Prince and Princess. They were really, they did not die after a few years, as most swans do, but lived for ever so many years.

"But tell me, Stella," asked Pimble, who was just as interested in her story as we were, "the Princess Elia, and, stranger yet, they did not die after a few years, as most swans do, but lived for ever so many years."

"No offence, Miss, no offence! But come right in. You'll be tired with your trip, and a little of dinner won't hurt you, will it? I'll wait on you. Mrs. Mills. And she caught up a bag in each hand and hurried inside, Mary following with becoming modesty.

"The room we entered was large and airy, but seemed that little too big for its size. The floor was bare and none too clean, the walls were unadorned. The furniture consisted of a long narrow table, several chairs painted a bright yellow, and a stove that gave evidence of having been polished since it left the factory. This was apparently the dining-room, but the table was covered with a turkey-red cloth and laid for one.

"Mrs. Mills never ceased talking. 'I'll have some dinner ready in a jiffy. Mr. Harford—him as is the cook here—has been with me and has laid off your hats. Do you want one or two?'"

"One more, please," said Mary. "We should be here for only one night and we should like to be together."

"You could just as well have two," replied Mrs. Mills, as she greased up the open stairs which rose from the side of the room. "Don't you about all we've got here, and we've got lots of it—inside an' out. This house was built just when the railroad was being put through. All the men in the construction camp got their meals here an' some of the houses here, but business is slow here now, an' if it wasn't for the few steady boarders I've got, I'd be down an' out. But it's all in the hands of the Lord, who helps them what helps themselves, an' they do say that an elevator goes coming here next month, an' that will help the exchequer some, an' Mrs. Mills used to say."

"Mrs. Mills is apparently a philosopher in her own way."

"There's two empty rooms, an' you can have whichever you want. Seeing as it's for ladies, I could wish they were more fancy like, but you'll sleep just as sound I guess. What Land takes! I'm that satisfied that I sleep tight as to ask your names?"

We gave the requested information and then entered the first room. It contained an iron bed, a washstand on which was a basin and jug and small and uncomplimentary mirror. These things were what one might call the physical sciences, but in addition we saw two suitcases, rather the worse for wear, and—hanging on the wall of books that had duty as wardrobe—several suits of men's clothes. Immediately the room took on a personality and I asked to see the other one.

"A dreamer," said Mrs. Mills in reply to my look of inquiry, "believe me to a thing." "Travelling salesman," whispered Mary, "what started here?" "I'm a travelling salesman," I said, picturing from his looks that he wasn't one to be trusted—he was one of them kind that has been told here to go to the devil if he didn't have his own way. An' sure enough, first thing I knew he went off on the afternoon train without saying his bill."

We crossed the hall to the second room, which was furnished in the same manner as the first one, but with a washstand no traces of its former occupants.

"This will do nicely," I said. "And now, Mrs. Mills, if you could let us have dinner at once."

"Bless your heart! I'm so glad to

England's "Mystery Towers"

Were Intended to Keep German Subs Out of Channel

The secret of England's "Mystery Towers," fourteen of which were to have been built to close the English Channel to German submarines, has been revealed by the Government's request for £50,000 to destroy one of them as useless. Since the war the Admiralty has been conducting experiments with one of these huge towers and progress has never been divulged. But recently, Lieutenant-Commander Kenworthy in the House of Commons tore aside the veil. During the latter days of the war, he explained, it was necessary at all costs to keep German U-boats out of the channel and the romantic scheme of the "Mystery Towers" was evolved.

"Someone," went on Mr. Kenworthy, "hit upon the idea of making concrete and steel towers which could be lowered out and sunk on certain selected sandbanks in the channel. On those towers were to be mounted search-lights and guns, and they were also to be equipped with listening apparatus—hydrophones—for detecting submarines, and with firing apparatus for exploding mine fields through which submarines were passing.

"It was very good from the point of view of the war, but unfortunately it was hit upon rather too late." Nevertheless, two of the towers were completed at a cost of—£50,000. One is now being used for a light-house and it is for the destruction of the other that the Government is asking the Commons for funds.

Vancouver Extending Exports

Further innovations in extending the exports of the Pacific port are reported. The experiment of sending frozen fish to New York, via the Panama Canal, was successful in every respect and a second ship has left with a further consignment of 350 tons for the same market. For the first time British Columbia road and water has been shipped from the port of Vancouver to Europe via the Panama, and large quantities will in future go forward to Belgium and the United Kingdom.

THAT there are Physicians who specialize on Infant ailments you know. All Physicians understand Infant troubles; all Physicians treat them. It is his profession, his duty, to know human ills from the Stork to the Great Beyond.

But in serious cases he calls in the Specialist. Why? He knows as every Mother knows, or ought to know, that Baby is just a baby, needing special treatment, special remedies.

Can a Mother be less thoughtful? Can a Mother try to relieve Baby with a remedy that she would use for herself? Ask yourself; and answer honestly! Always remember that Baby is just a baby. And remembering this you will remember that Fletcher's Castoria is made especially for Infants and Children.

Children Cry For

The False and the True.

Advertising by the use of large space, the expenditure of huge sums of money have placed on the market, have put in your hands, perhaps, many articles that today have been discarded, as you will readily admit.

Do you recall anything that has more modestly appealed to the public than has Fletcher's Castoria; modest in all its claims, pleading at all times—and truthfully—for our babies?

The big splash, the misleading claims may win for a time, but the honest truth-telling advertisement is like the old story of the tortoise that beat the hare.

Mothers everywhere, and their daughters, new mothers, speak frankly, glowingly, enthusiastically in praise of Fletcher's Castoria. Speak of it lovingly as a friend that has brought comfort, cheer and smiles to their little one.

To them: to these true mothers no argument can induce them to get aside their bottle of Castoria, their old friend, that they might try even another and unknown remedy for babies. Then, would YOU think of going to YOUR OWN medicine chest to find relief for Baby's troubles? Can you not separate the false from the true?

GERARD—JONES WEDDING

Christ church was the scene of an unusually interesting wedding on the morning of Victoria Day, when Annie Berry Jones, daughter of Mrs. Rowland Machin, and the late Jonas Jones of Cowley, and Walter Grant Gerard of Calgary, son of Mr. and Mrs. M.G. Gerard of London, Eng., formerly of Aberdeen, Scotland, were united in marriage. The Rev. J. M. Conyn-Ching, rector of Christ church, performed the ceremony. Mr. Stillman played the wedding march and during the signing of the register, Mrs. Meta Hill sang "At Dawning" very sweetly. The bride, who presented a charming picture, entered the church on the arm of her brother-in-law, Mr. A. E. Colley-Foster, of Red Deer. Her gown was a charming creation of oyster white canton crepe, lined with flowered chiffon, and heavily embroidered in orchid shades. A quaint poke hat in orchid shades wreathed in flowers, oyster colored French kid shoes, and an orchid cloak completed a unique and beautiful costume. Her bouquet was of Ophelia roses and mauve sweet peas tied with streamers of mauve chiffon, and she wore the bridegroom's gift, a marquise ring of platinum and diamonds.

Mrs. George H. Van Allen, the mother of honor, wore a gown of citron-colored Roman silk with vestee of real lace and picture hat of salmon pink and black lace trimmed with pink magnolias. She carried a bouquet of yellow tea roses and pink sweet peas, with pink chiffon streamers, and also the bridegroom's gift, a handsome green gold mesh bag with antique top.

Mr. Alex. McLennan, of Calgary, attended the bridegroom.

The bridegroom's gift to the best man was a diamond and platinum stickpin. The bride's gift to the bridegroom was a handsome stickpin and pearl and platinum studs.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Machin, wore a pinkish blue brocade gown with corsage bouquet of pink carnations. With this she wore a Gainsborough hat, and handsome cloak to match. The bride's sister, Mrs. A. E. Colley-Foster, was smartly gowned in black canton crepe, silver toned hat and corsage bouquet of American beauty roses completed her costume.

Mrs. Hugh Francis Baker, of Calgary, the bride's aunt, wore a smart black and white gown and hat, and corsage bouquet of pink roses.

After the wedding ceremony the wedding party repaired to the Macdonald hotel where luncheon was served in the private dining room to about thirty-five guests, the majority of whom later accompanied the bride and bridegroom to the train. The room was artistically decorated with pink and white flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerard left on the one o'clock train for Calgary, from where they will take a motor trip through the Yellowstone Park and other parts of the United States. Going away, the bride wore a nigger brown cape costume trimmed with tangerine, a brown hat and veil and sable furs.—Edmonton Journal.

Mrs. Jack Patterson and children arrived home this week after spending several weeks visiting relatives in Ontario. Jack met them at the Hat and accompanied them home from that point.

Supt. Pomeroy, of the R. C. M. P., Lethbridge, has been retired. It is stated that the reason for his retirement is in keeping of the new policy of reducing the force. Insp. McDonald, of Macleod, may also be retired.

The newly proposed water system for the town of Coleman will cost $50,920, according to an estimate prepared by engineers that the town had working on the plan. The present system is valued at about $10,000. If the council adopt the estimate and put in the system, West Coleman will have water. It will be a great asset to the town.

It is more than a pleasure to take a stroll around the town now and notice the clean appearance of the place. The gangs of men employed by the town to rake up and haul away the refuse, eat, on the streets and in the alleys, have done their work well and it is up to the citizens now to see that they do not throw their refuse in the hands of the place, but to place it in the alley and touch a match to it. For cinders, etc., that will not burn, they should have a barrel. When the barrel is full, have it dumped at the nuisance ground. It is just as easy to do this as to let the junk accumulate around your premises and it not only adds to the appearance of your own property, but of the town in general. The town have done their share now and a little co-operation is all that is needed to keep up the good work.

THIRD CROP REPORT

Issued by the Publicity Commissioner, Government Buildings, Edmonton.

Although the warm weather during the latter half of May brought rapid growth to the crops in general in Alberta, and the grain is showing a healthy condition in most sections, a note of anxiety has crept into reports from some localities with respect to moisture conditions. Need of rain in emphasized in several of the reports received by the agricultural department from its agents. In the extreme southern areas rainfall has been fairly satisfactory, particularly in the south-western section of the province, while farther north, in some of the more central areas, need of moisture has been apparent. In the northern areas also there are dry spots, but conditions generally are good. There has been soil drifting to some extent in several southern localities, and the cutworms and grasshoppers are offering trouble in sections. There will be no extensive suffering from lack of moisture, however, for another week or two. Seeding of grain crops is practically completed.

Southern Areas—

Encouraging reports come from these areas with respect to moisture conditions, although in one or two localities there is need of rain, and there has been some soil drifting. Seeding of all grains is practically completed. Fall rye is showing growth of from eight to ten inches, and is headed out at Gleichen. Cutworms are causing damage in some districts, and grasshoppers are hatching out rapidly in great numbers. Precipitation at Lethbridge for May was .89, at Gleichen .28. There has been generally splendid growth of grass on the prairies.

Central Areas—

In the more southern portion of the central areas, soil drifting has caused damage on summerfallow, and on the lighter lands, in one or two places as high as 30 per cent. Moisture conditions are not entirely satisfactory but the grain is not suffering extensively as yet. Rainfall over the central areas averaged about two-thirds of an inch during May. Cutworms and wire worms are causing trouble in some localities and grasshoppers are hatching. Hay crops are showing rather poor growth, some timothy has been winter killed, in some sections, but in more northern localities pasture conditions are good and livestock picking up well.

Northern Areas—

Grain is showing a fine, even growth, and there is no suffering as yet from lack of moisture. There have been no killing frosts. The potato crop is practically all in the ground, with reduced acreage in some localities. Pasture lands are showing much improvement.

Grasshoppers—

The campaign to combat the grasshopper pest is now well under way. Poison mixing stations are coming into operation. The farmers are actively co-operating in this work and many districts are organizing community campaigns. The grasshoppers are now hatching out in large numbers over all the southern portion of the province.

Judge McDonald was up from Macleod to spend the week end.

BUILT BETTER than Cars that Cost More-

A CAREFUL analysis of the construction and complete equipment of the Light-Six will convince you that it has no duplicate in value in the light car class.

For instance, the machining of the crank shaft and connecting rods on all surfaces is a manufacturing practice that is found only on the costlier cars.

This particular operation is mainly responsible for the fine balance of the Light-Six motor and its remarkable freedom from vibration at all speeds. It also has an important bearing on the wearing quality of the car and on its long-lived, dependable service.

The exceptional values in the Light-Six are possible because practically every part that goes into the car is manufactured complete by Studebaker. Parts-makers profits are largely eliminated. Important savings through better methods and bigger volume permit greater value to be given the buyer.

From the standpoint of shrewd investment you should find out why the Light-Six offers you so much more for your money in performance, service and economy.

"While the soldiers were enduring the frightful hardships of the trenches, with almost certain death staring them in the face, the doctors, who knew the danger of the excessive number of cigarettes (as many as 400 a week), remained silent. Dr. Laphorn Smith asks whether it is not the duty of doctors to tell the truth about tobacco excess. It is one of those poisons that does not kill directly, but indirectly, by its action on the heart. Everybody's heart is not only strong enough to do its ordinary work, but it also has a reserve power of 25 or 50 per cent,—killed by excessive smoking."—British Weekly.

Rush British Troops To Scene Of Fighting In Belfast District

London.—Fighting between republican troops and special is now in progress along a mile front on the Louth border, according to reports to the Central News. Seven heavy loads of British troops have been rushed to the scene from Newry.

Interest in the Irish situation has shifted to Ulster where the borderland disturbances and the Belfast outrages are more serious than ever. The conference of Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, and the Marquis of Londonderry, with Premier Lloyd George were not productive of optimistic statements regarding the solution of the problem.

It is understood that the question of the support to be given to Northern Ireland in case of an invasion of that territory was considered, and an agreement reached. The situation remains grave.

The Evening Standard's Belfast correspondent says: "Appalling disorders have occurred here, the like of which this city of horrors has never experienced before. Between seven and noon, ambulances were summoned thirteen times. The streets were raked with machine gun fire, the rebels, in turn, bombed several places; the firemen fought flames while two whole blocks of houses were set on fire, and the battle waged in the streets all around."

"Nine civilians" were carried out dead from this inferno, top of them women. Many were killed in houses, into which the rival factions pursued them in fury. The bodies were rescued only in time to prevent cremation.

"Bayonet charges by the military were necessary to disperse the mobs which gathered to join in the battle. The gunmen retreated to the Grosvenor Road area where a fresh battle broke out, involving Leeson Street, Norfolk Street and other thoroughfares. The crown forces had a difficult task in suppressing the gunmen. Their concentrated fire reduced the gunmen to silence for a while, but later the rebels mounted a machine gun and swept the streets, causing men, women and children to flee for their lives."

Advocates Direct Taxation

Woman Member at Ottawa Thinks Canadians Come Near to Dollar Worthiness

Ottawa.—The Government that supports it is going to take its life in its hands, but the Government not willing to take its life in its hands is possibly not the best kind of Government."

So Miss Agnes Macphail, Canada's woman member, pleaded for direct taxation in the House of Commons. Miss Macphail's speech, which created considerable interest, was brief. She referred to the budget as one step forward and one step backward. She attacked protection, with which the Liberal party was "ridicled," regretted the Canadians had come very near to dollar worthiness, and urged a better rural credit system.

Declare Australian Settlers Unfit London.—The Western Australian New Settlers' League complains that recent batches of immigrants include persons physically unfit and some unwilling to live a country life, says a Reuters despatch from Perth, Western Australia. The league has cabled the West Australian Premier, Sir James Mitchell, who is now in London, emphasizing the urgent need of strict supervision in the selection and examination of prospective settlers for that state.

Less Crime in Calgary Calgary.—Crime has been decreasing at a rapid pace in Calgary for several months. During May, 19 cases of drunkenness were heard in police court compared with 71 during the same month last year. There were 400 cases, half of which were bylaw infractions, in court during the month as against nearly 600 in May last year.

London Museums Are Overstocked

Art Treasures May be Loaned to Dominion Cities

London.—Decentralization of National Art collections by loans of the surplus treasures to the larger cities in the United Kingdom and the Dominion was decided at the annual meeting of the National Art Collections Fund at Burlington House. Sir Alfred Mond, Minister of Health, said the London museums were overstocked and their cellars full of treasures. He especially advocated the circulation of British works of art in the larger cities in the Dominion and expressed the hope that the British museum would be given greater power like the other art galleries to circulate surplus works.

Sir Robert Will, trustee of the National Gallery, London, and one of the founders of the National Art Collections Fund, who presided at the meeting, urged the necessity of prohibiting the sale of works of art to go abroad and compensating the owners in cases where the refusal to sell to foreigners and the retention of art treasures in this country would mean pecuniary loss.

Turks Continue Atrocities

British Cannot Act Until Reply Received from U.S.

London.—Acts of great barbarity are still being committed by the Turks against the Greeks in the Trebizond district of Asia Minor. Cecil Harmsworth, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, told the House of Commons when questioned on the subject.

Mr. Harmsworth gave independent witnesses who had just left Trebizond as authority for his statement. He said it was reported that "little boys were collected in companies and then allowed to starve to death." The British Government was doing all in its power to help the despatch of the proposed commission of enquiry, but no further action could be taken until a reply was received to the invitation, extended to the United States Government.

Wheat Board Question Will Be Taken Up After Budget Debate

Ottawa.—The situation as regards the passage of legislation establishing a wheat board was the subject of questions put in the House of Commons by Hon. H. H. Stevens. Mr. Stevens recalled that the reference of this question to a special committee was made on March 27 with indications of a need of haste. A report was made by May 26. It involved legislation by Parliament and also by provincial legislatures in order to provide for handling this year's wheat crop. Yet the resolution had been allowed to lie on the order papers for seven days. Mr. Stevens wanted to know what was the reason for delay and whether it had anything to do with the somewhat extraordinary action by the committee on Friday last in rescinding a former motion.

The Prime Minister replied that there was no intention to delay the discussion upon the wheat board after the budget debate was finished. Just as soon as the end of that debate was reached, the Government would be glad to take up the consideration of the report of the agriculture and colonization committee.

Mr. Stevens inquired whether it was not unusual to delay the consideration of business which each day preceded the budget debate on the order paper. He had intimated that it was the intention to give precedence to the budget debate. It was thought desirable to carry that arrangement through.

The Prime Minister replied that

Wheat Board Certificates

Many Participation Certificates Are Still Outstanding

Ottawa.—There are yet nearly $210,000 worth of wheat board participation certificates outstanding, according to a return tabled in the House by Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Trade and Commerce, in answer to a question asked by C. C. Davies, Progressive member for North Battleford. A total of $560,000 was turned over to the Federal Government by the Canadian Wheat Board from surplus account. Mr. Davies was informed, and also $175,000 from participation certificates. The total value of outstanding participation certificates on May 22, 1922, was $209,528.34. Applications for payment on outstanding participation certificates are still being received and are being paid by the Canada Wheat Board, it was stated. The questions when such payments will be discontinued has not yet been considered.

Mr. Davies was also informed that the Canada Wheat Board had recommended that the amount of $560,000 transferred from surplus account should be distributed to the provincial governments pro-rata, on the basis of the quantity of wheat delivered to the board by the producers in each province, such monies to be used for the immediate relief of distressed farmers in the various provinces and that any money remaining on account of unpaid certificates should be used for research work, particularly for the prevention of black rust in wheat.

The next morning he will disembark from the Renown at the Devonport dockyard and proceed to London.

Daughters of Empire Plan Bursaries For Canadian Scholars

Vancouver.—In memory of men and women who gave their lives in the defense of the Empire in the great war, the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, plan a war memorial in the form of bursaries in Canadian universities, overseas post graduate scholarships and the placing of pictures on historical themes in school libraries, according to the report of the War Memorial Committee presented by Constance B. Lang, convener, to the convention of the order.

Nine bursaries one for each province, will be offered annually for a period of eighteen years. For these, only the children of deceased and permanently disabled soldiers and sailors and men of the air force are eligible. These bursaries will be of the value of $250 per annum, tenable for four years.

The choice of the university is left to the scholar and the Royal Military College may be substituted for a university.

To Prevent Liquor Importation Ottawa.—John Miller (Qu'Appelle) asked in the House of Commons whether representations had been made to the Dominion Government "that could properly be construed as an effort to prevent the importation of alcoholic liquor into the province of Saskatchewan for the purpose of export to other Canadian provinces."

"Yes," was the Prime Minister's brief reply.

Would Welcome Ex-Indian Officers London.—Responding to a recent communication from Field Marshal Rawlinson, Premier Hughes of the Australian Commonwealth, has given assurance that the Commonwealth would heartily welcome as settlers the 3,000 officers who are retiring from the Indian Army.

Will Erect Monument at Halifax Halifax.—Halifax has been chosen as the site of the National monument to Canadians lost at sea through hazard of the war by the War Graves Commission, according to word received here. The monument will be erected on an elevation facing the sea.

London.—With Germany unpleasant Premier Lloyd George had planned to make a brief statement on reparations in the House of Commons, but when John Robert Clynes, Labor member, opened the debate and attributed the present difficulties to the Government's election pledges of 1918, the Prime Minister launched into a lengthy defense of the reparations commission and the treaty of Versailles.

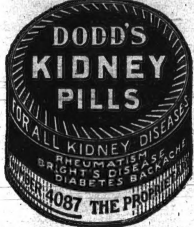

Mr. Lloyd George praised the German attitude towards the reparations commission and said so long as she was not defiant, Germany could count on Britain's sympathy and understanding of the difficulties in meeting the treaty conditions. He declared, however, that there was no cause for disagreement between France and Great Britain for should Germany refuse to attempt to fulfil the commission's proposals, Great Britain's place would be at the side of the Versailles signatories despite the misrepresentations which were being made.

Great Britain believed in the traditional policy of moderation and fulfillment, continued the Prime Minister, and he gave warning that isolated action on the part of any one of the allies would be disastrous to the entire treaty system.

"It is the policy pursued after Waterloo toward France when Prussia and Russia and other victors urged that France be trampled," said Mr. Lloyd George. "The Government in that day refused to countenance such a policy; we are pursuing the same course. But if Germany is defiant, if she should say 'this treaty we decline to carry out,' it would be different. A German policy of non-fulfilment would be a policy of immediate disaster."

"It is not a question of France acting alone. If there is defiance of the Versailles treaty. We are signatories to the treaty, which the House of Commons ratified. We are committed to it. In spite of all misrepresentations we still stand for the policy of moderation and fulfillment."

S. Trono, jeweler, has recently sold six portable Victor gram-ophones. These machines are ideal for campers and picnics, being no larger than an ordinary suitcase. They have a sweet, mellow tone and sound as good in the house as out in the open.

The water mains in town are gradually thawing out and people are more than pleased to be again using their own water lines. It has been rather a nuisance to townspeople this past winter to have water conditions such as they were and it is to be hoped that some action will be taken before next winter to prevent a like happening. Of course it is hard to lay the blame on anybody except the weather man, for last winter was rather peculiar. Private water lines have to be put in by the owner of the property, so therefore the town is not responsible for the manner in which the lines are laid, however, the town lost a large sum of money through lines freezing last winter and the officials should take some course to see that next winter does not see the same state of affairs.

Fred Gavelin has added greatly to the appearance of his cottages on State Street by leveling the lawn and erecting a fence around the property.

The ball game at Fernie a week ago last Sunday, between Blair-more and White Spruce, resulted in a win for the latter, the score being 12-6.

Principal Conway has added a fine fence to his property on State Street and has also put in a neat lawn, which adds a fine appearance to the property.

The fine showers of this week helped to brighten up the trees and grass. The gardens around town are looking fine and growing very rapidly.

The lights went out last Monday evening about nine-thirty but were working again before the next morning. The trouble was undoubtedly due to the electrical storm that evening.

Kathleen Vere, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Vere suffered a fractured elbow and had her arm dislocated when she fell off a pony that her father was leading. She was attended by Dr. Olivier and is reported as progressing favorably.

The first of the tourists to go through the Crows' Nest Pass route passed here this week and it looks as if the southern route is becoming more popular every year. The scenery and roads are every bit as good, if not better than the Banff route, and if the towns along the southern track will co-operate in the matter of making attractive tourist camps there is no reason why there should not be a steady flow of pleasure seekers pass this way all the time.
